A Message from the Head of School, Rabbi Samuel J. Levine

Dear Parents,

My wife and I have chosen our glorious national parks as our vacation destination these past several years. To see Hashem's handiwork in its pristine state is awe-inspiring as one contemplates the magnificence of His creations. This July, Breindel and I spent nine days in Jackson Hole, Wyoming, home to the Grand Teton and Yellowstone National Parks. My words cannot adequately describe the splendor of the Tetons nor can they begin to impart the grandeur of the landscapes, flora and fauna of Yellowstone. Making the vistas even more splendid was the fact that this past winter's snows were more than three times the yearly average. As a result, the lower elevations of the Tetons were covered with snow as were many places on the forest floor of Yellowstone. For Florida residents this was an added treat: playing in the snow in eighty-degree weather was delightful.

Some of the parks we visited in the past provided a challenge in terms of finding kosher food. On those occasions we had to subsist on crackers and canned tuna. Not so in Jackson Hole. This tiny western town, nestled in the shadow of the Tetons, is home to a Chabad House. Not only were we able to purchase hot meals for Shabbat, but we also had a minyan and Torah reading. A diverse group of fellow travelers spent a unique Shabbat together because of the mesirat nefesh (self-sacrifice) of Rabbi Zalman Mendelsohn, the Chabad shaliach, in this distant and remote corner of the United States.

At Kiddush lunch after tefila, the rabbi's three-year-old daughter, Chayale, told her father that she wanted to speak to the twenty guests gathered around the table. With poise beyond her years, she told us about her month-long visit to Crown Heights. "I saw a boy wearing a yarmulke and tzitzit just like my Tati," she said, with eyes opened wide in wonder. "And," she continued, "I had a Morah named Devorah Leah." This little girl is home schooled, has only her younger sister to play with and interacts with children infrequently because there are no other children her age in her community. To her, a place where Torah observance is the norm, where Jewish schools and camps abound and where kosher food is readily accessible, seem exotic.

Upon our return home, I reflected upon what this little girl had to say. I thought, what would life be like without the local institutions that so richly contribute to our lives as observant Jews? Can you imagine what Shabbat afternoon would be like without anyone with whom to interact? What if we were solely responsible for the Torah education of our children? What would life be like without the social contacts, the neighbors and friends that enrich our lives? Unfortunately, we sometimes take these things for granted.

As we begin a new year, I feel refreshed and renewed by my summertime experience. The three weeks I spent away from campus accomplished what was intended. I have also returned with a greater appreciation for G-d's beautiful handiwork. But just as importantly, thanks to Chayale, I also have a far greater appreciation for my community, for our communal institutions, and for the people who populate them. Without them life would just not be the same.

Shana Tova.

New Middle School Building Opens Its Doors

Rave reviews were the order of the day as Middle School students and parents entered our new Middle School building on the first day of school. Gone was the Annex that for the past decade housed our Middle School, replaced by our state-of-the-art, magnificent, new, 26,000 square-foot building. The new facility houses a Beit Midrash that enhances the tefilah experience of our students. With a seating capacity of 210, the Beit Midrash has a quiet sanctity that helps inspire the tefilah of our students for both shacharit and mincha services. The Beit Midrash is also home to BRS West which meets there for tefilah on Shabbat and Yom Tov.

Students participated in a community service fair where organizations including The Friendship Circle, Yachad, Mitzvah Clowning, and Chai Lifeline, came to present and inform the students about their missions.

Congratulations to all of our EMET Logo Design contestants and to the contest winner, Lizzy Adler.

Enriching academics in Science and Computers are two new cutting edge labs. Each classroom is equipped with a SmartBoard allowing the faculty to employ technology in planning and presenting lessons to students. Having the latest technology on hand allows teachers in all disciplines to be more creative in their teaching, and is yet another step in the school's reimagining its curriculum in order to afford our students the 21st century skills they will need. A spacious atrium houses our well-appointed student lounge that gives Hillel Middle Schoolers an area in which to relax or study in between classes and during recess and lunch. The building also provides office space, a conference room, tutoring rooms and a kitchen/work area for our faculty.

We thank G-d for His bountiful blessings in helping our community create one of the finest school campuses in North America.

The AVI CHAI Foundation Sponsors Rabbi Adam Englander for Harvard's Principals' Seminar

Rabbi Adam Englander, Upper School Principal, has just returned from Improving Schools: The Art of Leadership, a seminar at the Harvard Graduate School of Education's Principals' Center.

The AVI CHAI Foundation, a New York-based private foundation dedicated to promoting Jewish commitment, sponsored Rabbi Englander and eleven other day school principals from around the country to attend the seminar to help address the professional development needs of rapidly growing Jewish day schools.

Rabbi Englander attended lectures and discussion groups led by Harvard faculty, educational consultants and school practitioners. The program focuses on the challenges facing new school leaders and supports participants as they develop skills for leadership. Rigorous study is combined with writing, reflection and peer interaction, allowing participants to identify priorities and share ideas and solutions.

"It was a wonderful experience for me," said Rabbi Englander. "At Harvard, I attended lively, thought provoking sessions exploring the components of what makes a good school. We learned how to enhance the quality of the school experience for everyone – students, teachers and administrators alike. The AVI CHAI dinners for principals of Jewish day schools allowed us the chance to discuss those issues close to our heart – creating the most effective atmosphere for the education of our children. I am bringing these new skills back to Hillel."

Lauren Merkin, a member of AVI CHAI's Board of Trustees, says, "Strong instructional leadership is critical to achieving AVI CHAI's goal of enhancing the Jewish education provided by day schools. Through these institutes we aim to provide Jewish day school leaders with an intensive opportunity to reflection school leadership with leading academics and with practitioners from across North America."

(Rabbi E.)

The excitement, energy and enthusiasm that has permeated the air during the first few weeks of this new school year is like nothing I have ever felt before on the HDS campus. The Middle Schoolers were privileged to settle into their magnificent new home with a beautiful Beit Midrash, state-of-the-art science lab, Apple Mac lab (thank you, PTA!), spacious student lounge, and much more. Our superstar teachers from the past are back and some great new teaching talent has joined our family. The Upper School was thrilled to welcome twenty-two new students. I have no doubt that this year will be our greatest year yet!

The hallmark of the HDS experience is a continuous striving towards excellence. With that comes enhancement and innovation in our student programming. We are very proud that we have officially kicked off the Middle School Elective Program. This new, cutting edge program affords students the opportunity to explore areas of interest and exposes them to a wide variety of educational experiences. Students were given a choice amongst ten options which meet every other week. The program operates in a half-year cycle so that each student can experience several different electives over the course of their Middle School years. The electives currently being offered are: HDS CSI Lab (a fascinating forensics course), Website Design, Digital Photography, Chess, Israel Ambassadors, Scrapbooking, Three Dimensional Art, Cooking, Jewelry Making, and Pre-Pre-Med (presentations from local doctors).

Best of all, our students have been so excited about this program and have been loving every minute! We are looking forward to offering an even greater variety of electives in the future. Please let us know if you have an idea for an elective offering that would enhance our program.

KAR²E Kolumn

By: Rabbi Mordechai Smolarcik,
 KAR²E Coordinator

Dear Middle School Parents,

The Middle School's KAR²E program is designed to insure that students graduate from Hillel with not only the best in Torah and secular education but that they also lead their lives based on the principles of "Kindness Always, Respect and Responsibility Everywhere." Towards this end, the Middle School students and their teachers participate in bi-weekly discussion groups known as KAR²E Circles. This year we are attempting to inculcate our students with the tools necessary for displaying pro-social caring behaviors.

Research has shown that the skills needed in order to help others include:

- Recognizing a situation where someone needs help
- Building a repertoire of helpful solutions
- Strong personal motivation to help (empathy, sympathy, etc.)
- Prioritizing helping others over our own needs
- Self-efficacy and assertiveness

Based on this research, the KAR²E Circle discussions will center around helping our students strengthen these skill sets. As an example, during the first week of school, the students were shown a series of facial expressions and body postures and were challenged to identify the emotions and non-verbal messages being exhibited. This exercise will hopefully increase the student's awareness of when others may need help.

While we are attempting to assist the students' growth in these areas, it is of great importance that these skills also be practiced at home. I encourage all parents to get involved in this process so that our children grow to their potential as scholars and as human beings.

Dear Parents,

As you know, each and every year we dedicate ourselves to giving the children the best education possible. This year is no exception. As a way to continue to educate our children with life skills they can carry outside the classroom, we have spent a great deal of time with the KidSafe organization, and have further developed this program for grades EC4-Middle School. The professionals from KidSafe will be running an eight-week course for students in EC4-K, teaching them about the traditional safety features in their environment of which all children in those age groups should be aware. Weekly discussions will include topics on how to stay safe from strangers, how to best answer the phone, whether or not it's a good idea to answer the door, how to protect yourself from Internet predators, and much more. This information can help children to safely navigate their world both physically and digitally. In addition, the same instructors have been meeting with children in Grades 1-3, who have already graduated the program, for a four-week refresher course, which will help them maintain these very important lifelong skills.

While teaching our children about personal safety is vital, we are also dedicating the entire year to helping children stamp out peer bullying. Although bullying is not pervasive in our school, thank G-d, there are children who do communicate or act in ways that may make others feel left out, ashamed or isolated. Again, in working with the team from KidSafe, our teachers have begun an intensive training, which will create a task force that will hopefully ultimately eradicate these issues. The curriculum will help students stick up for kids who are made to feel bad or alienated, and stand up for those who may feel disconnected from the classroom community. They will help make everyone feel included, comfortable, and confident. In addition, KidSafe will be checking in throughout the year to see how the children are doing with these issues.

In addition, we have significantly enhanced our Lower School Science Department with the addition of Batsheva Klein as Lower School science teacher. Mrs. Klein has already begun to teach them about the science of our environment. There is an enhanced science lab with a variety of animals such as tortoises, fish, hermit crabs and hamsters. The children love learning how to take care of these animals, and we hope to continue this enthusiasm as the months progress!

How wonderful it is to be back in school and feeling the positive energy that permeates the entire Hillel campus. Baruch Hashem, we have been blessed to add to our already beautiful campus. Our new Middle School building houses a magnificent Beit Midrash, state-of-the-art computer and science labs, gorgeous classrooms and working areas for the students to collaborate together and socialize during breaks. Walking through all the buildings, one is inspired and excited to hear the enthusiasm and eagerness of our students to learn and to succeed.

We have added new faces to our faculty. As assistants in our classrooms we welcome to Early Childhood, Morah Ziyona Cheftzi, who is assisting Morah Cindy Halbstein in the ECE4 classroom. Morah Ziyona is an alumna of Hillel, and it is wonderful to have a former student come back to work with us. Morah Chana Sosin is assisting in the 1st grade along with Morah Elisheva Levitt and Morah Hana Marin, and Morah Gabrielle Meyerowitz, is assisting in the 2nd grade with Morah Bracha Doch.

We are proud to add several new teachers to our Upper School faculty. In the 4th grade, Rabbi Gershon Eisenberger comes to us from Monsey, NY, where he taught at Ashar as well as at the Joseph Kushner Hebrew Academy in Livingston, NJ. Rabbi Eisenberger is a parent to three children in Hillel and we welcome his family to our community. Also, in the 4th grade, we are excited to have Rabbi Moshe Nadav, who brings with him a warm and exciting love of Torah. Rabbi and Morah Gali have their three daughters in Hillel. In the Middle School, we added Mrs. Danielle Grajower, who hails from New York. she has taught at Hillel Torah in Skokie, IL, and the SAR Academy in Riverdale, NY. Morah Danielle teaches Chumash and Navi in the Middle School. Also, in Limudei Kodesh Middle School, we welcome Morah Aliza Pilichowski, who comes from Harkham Hillel Hebrew Academy in California and is now teaching Toshba to the 7th grade girls. The Pilichowski's have three children in Hillel and we welcome them to the community. Ms. Danielle Mizrahi is a new teacher, who brings so much positive energy to her

Middle School classes as she teaches social studies to 6th, 7th and 8th grades.

In the ETGAR department, it was bittersweet to say goodbye to our good friend Mrs. Judy Ziton. Mrs. Ziton made Aliyah and finding a replacement for her was a huge task. Mrs. Nechama Lichtenstein answered the call and she brings many years of teaching experience from various schools, the last being in Rochester, NY. Mrs. Lichtenstein has a special love for teaching special education and her classroom is warm and inviting. Mrs. Lichtenstein has a daughter, Rivkah, in the 7th grade.

This year, we are adding a new feature to our Limudei Kodesh program in 2nd, 3rd and 4th grades. Using an inclusion model for Chumash instruction, Morah Tova Gil and Morah Batsheva Klein assist in the classrooms and help the children during the Chumash lessons. This is working very well and we are excited to see great results in the classes of Chumash. Morah Batsheva Klein wears two hats this year, one as the inclusion teacher for Chumash, and the other as the science teacher for EC4 through 4th grade.

Hailing all the way from Israel, we welcome our new B'not Sheirut, Ronee Rotterman and Ayala Nir. They bring excitement and warmth to our program and they are happy to be here as they have been graciously welcomed by the Boca community.

A new program parents are availing themselves of is our Judaic Homework Hotline for 1st through 5th grades. Parents volunteered to be on call to assist other parents who may have difficulties in helping with the Hebrew assignments. The program is working well and we appreciate the efforts of everyone participating.

The Oneg Shabbat that we implemented last year in Early Childhood and 1st through 5th grades is continuing again this year. Each Friday, Mr. Chaim Parchi comes to Hillel for two programs. At 10:30am, he sings with the Early Childhood and Kindergarten classes. At 11:00am, 1st through 5th grades join him in singing songs for Shabbat and Chagim. This is a beautiful program and parents are welcome to stop by.

We wish everyone a "Ktiva V'Chatima Tova." May Hashem grant us success, peace and good health.

Each morning in the days before Rosh Hashanah Morah Hadassah tells HDS students a story and Rabbi Drang blows the Shofar.

SPORTS - Hillel Lions Roar into a New Season

Maia Shaffer, Athletic Director

The school year is in full swing and the sports program is no exception. We have kicked off the season with Boys Flag Football and Girls Volleyball.

As of this writing, we are hoping that the Boys Flag Football team will participate in this year's playoffs and we are extremely excited about our chances. We have had great participation in our first season of Hillel's Sports Clinics. The number of participants has doubled in some sports and tripled in others. They have also prepared the athletes for the upcoming late fall season with Boys Soccer and Girls Basketball.

I look forward to seeing all of the young talent participating in our second session clinics which begin on October 24.

Go, Lions!

Girls Volleyball

By: Coach Tammy Mathis

It has been a great honor to have been the Head Coach of the girls volleyball team 2011-2012. I have been impressed with their dedication and accomplishments this season. It is nice to have been in the company of young ladies with such good character and values on and off the court. Go Lions!!!!

Boys Flag Football

By: Coach Brennen Grubbs and Maia Shaffer

This year's outstanding effort from the Boys Flag Football team has demonstrated what hard work and dedication from our students can make possible. They not only had a great season, but also surpassed expectations by qualifying for the playoffs and winning the last two regular season games against St. Marks and Sagemont School. There were some extraordinary moments which included Sammy Baum, Tani Kay and Elie Zaghi each having interceptions which contributed greatly to the St. Marks victory. The touchdowns, which sealed the deal for the game against St. Marks, were made by Jacob Katz and Sammy Baum. Some winning plays against Sagemont school included touchdowns made by Jacob Katz, Sammy Baum, Tani Kay, and Ari Cohen.

Thank you to all our athletes who come to practices ready to train hard as well as those athletes who are able to go the extra mile by attending our clinics. The athletes' determination and drive to improve has gotten them to the playoffs. In fact the coach of St. Marks School remarked to Coach Grubbs that he was truly impressed with how much our boys have improved over the past two years. Our athletes have learned that practice and hard work make a tremendous difference.

Congratulations to the Boys Flag Football team, who advances to the playoffs. Final standings not available at press time.

Help Us Reach 100 Degrees

Next time you are in the lobby of the main school building, check out the Every Parent Campaign Thermometer. Help us raise the temperature, ultimately to reach our goal of 100 degrees with 100% participation by our parent body. Your contribution to the Annual Campaign, no matter the amount, will help us raise the temperature and your family name will be displayed reflecting your support of Hillel Day School.

You can participate in this campaign with a contribution to the Hillel Annual Fund any time during the year in any of the following ways: donating to the Annual Campaign with a general donation or tribute donation; participating in the Annual Journal Event by placing an ad in the journal, joining the Tribute Committee, or attending the event, participating in the Annual Golf Tournament by purchasing a sponsorship, playing in the Tournament or purchasing a raffle ticket, or donating back your VPK funding.

Last year we reached 67 degrees (67%) and we know that it is a little chilly for South Florida. We hope to see all of your names decorating our main lobby and watch as the mercury rises this year! Donation forms and envelopes are available at the front desk for your convenience.

Thanking you in advance,
Gila Stern, EPC Chair

TEACHER SPOTLIGHT ON MARJORIE TINIO

It's not very common for an educator to receive "Teacher of the Month" recognition during his/her first year of teaching in a school, but that was the honor recently awarded to Marjorie Tinio, a science teacher at Hillel Day School. Marjorie had joined the school faculty after teaching for several years in public schools, and was assigned a mentor, Rabbi Gur Berman, to help her navigate her first year at Hillel.

"It was invaluable to have a veteran teacher guiding me in the new school," Marjorie says. "On one level, it was so helpful to have someone explain school routines, policies, and even how to prepare comments for report cards. Mentoring also improved my classroom management. But it had a huge impact on my teaching because I was able to talk to my mentor at length about critical thinking and how I can enhance my teaching with particular classroom strategies. I could see and feel the difference in how the class engages with the subject matter."

In addition to being a new teacher, Marjorie faced several additional challenges. As a non-Jew, she found it extremely helpful when her mentor shared information with her regarding Jewish holidays and practices. In addition, her classroom was located in an adjacent building, and was physically isolated from most of the school. "The majority of the faculty was working in a different building, and I had little contact with them during the day," Marjorie says. "Gur was also teaching in my building, and he made a real effort to make sure I got to know the other teachers, even though I had little daily contact with them. This was part of a larger project that involved the faculty at the school – the creation of peer relationships among teachers. I hadn't seen that at the other schools I taught in, and I thought that was so important. I found myself going to other teachers for advice and guidance, and was so impressed to see much more veteran teachers doing the same."

Marjorie believes the experience of working with Gur has made her a better teacher and provided her with important insights about teaching as well as about being a supportive colleague. "By making me a better teacher, the mentoring process has ultimately benefited the kids in my class," Marjorie notes. "They were an important part of the process, because they saw Gur when he came to sit in the class and observe my work. I talked to them about why mentoring is important and what Gur's role was. So they were aware – and supportive. That helped me understand that we would all benefit from this program."
