A Message from the Head of School

Dear Parents,

Can you quickly identify our school's largest classroom? Need a hint? It is approximately 17,000 square feet and can accommodate hundreds of participants and spectators. The classroom to which I refer is, of course, our new gymnasium. You may ask why I refer to a sports facility as a classroom. Can you equate a gymnasium where children play basketball, volleyball and a host of other sports to a classroom? The answer is an emphatic, yes! The lessons learned in the gymnasium profoundly affect our students and how they live their lives. Our gymnasium is a living laboratory where children learn lessons of leadership and develop their character. The behaviors and responsibilities of students in the gymnasium are not markedly different from the behaviors students must demonstrate in their regular classrooms, albeit sometimes under more difficult conditions and circumstances.

Using the new gymnasium as a giant midot classroom, our students learn the lesson of sportsmanship under the able tutelage of our teachers and coaches. Sportsmanship has been described as playing fair, losing without complaint and winning without gloating. If, as adults, our graduates can navigate life's challenges demonstrating good sportsmanship in everything they do, they will live lives of integrity and character. Our children will grow up to be courteous and generous in both victory and defeat.

Our new gymnasium, on a daily basis, provides our students with a state-of-the-art facility where they can hone their athletic skills and apply the lessons of sportsmanship provided by our teachers and coaches. It was with great pride that we watched our Middle School Girls Basketball Team win Hillel Day School's first league championship. Throughout the season, the girls constantly strove to improve. Their coaches worked diligently with the team to improve their basketball skills and teamwork. But more importantly, they set an example for our students to emulate during stressful and challenging situations. When calls went against the team, Coach Jeffrey Harris showed them how to accept these decisions with equanimity. When other teams sometimes displayed behaviors not in keeping with good sportsmanship, he and his assistant, Basya Orzechowitz, encouraged the team not to reciprocate, to take the high road.

Lessons of sportsmanship are not limited to team sports but are an integral part of the physical education program at Hillel. Coaches Maia Shaffer and Moishe Aquart do not abide taunting, trash talking or intimidation. They constantly remind students that a bad pass, more often than a bad call, will lose a game. Students who engage in negative behaviors during physical education classes quickly find themselves sitting. I have heard our P.E. teachers lauding students for their interpersonal skills far more frequently than for their athletic prowess.

Hillel Day School Athletics seek to teach lessons of trustworthiness, respect, responsibility, fairness, caring and good citizenship. Chazal teach us (Avot 2:1), "What is the proper path that a person should choose for himself? Whatever is a credit to him and earns him esteem from his fellow man." Our P.E. program gives our students another opportunity to apply this important Rabbinic dictum to everyday life.

What's Happening

By: Morah Hadassah Smolarcik

It is hard to believe that half the year is already over as this academic year seems to be progressing so quickly. This must be because so many wonderful and fulfilling experiences are taking place in Hillel. Positive energy and enthusiasm is felt in the classrooms each day thanks to the hard work and effort that the teachers put forth. In order to enhance the already excellent curriculum, new programs have been added and the positive effects are already being felt in many areas. An area of concern brought up in the last parent survey, was Midot (character building). We are presently utilizing a curriculum in which the teachers focus on various Midot, applying them to the suitable age and emotional level of the students. For example, the teachers may be teaching "Savlanut," patience. In younger grades it may simply be waiting your turn in line. In older grades, it may translate to having patience for a fellow classmate who may be having difficulty in the classroom. This is a constant work in progress and we will monitor this area to develop and stress refined Midot.

Approximately one month ago, we began an Oneg Shabbat program for 1st through 5th grades, held each Friday morning. We focus on Parsha questions, a story, and the "Grand EMET" winner (to further recognize good Midot). This has been positively met by the students! If you pull up to Hillel in the morning and walk into the building, you will hear music playing. This is thanks to our new sound system that functions inside and throughout the entire campus! It is so nice to come and hear music playing early in the morning. Many programs took place in honor of Chanukah. Teachers hosted classes in their homes, some classes performed on the Hillel campus in the evenings and some performed during the daytime for parents to attend as well. Besides the class Chanukah programs, the B'not Sherut worked hard to coordinate programs for 1st through 5th graders each day of Chanukah. The 7th and 8th grade classes celebrated Shabbat with our annual Shabbaton held on the Hillel campus. The theme of the program was "Teamwork" and the activities coordinated by the teachers all involved stressing the importance of cooperation and working together for a common goal. The children had an amazing time and the food was delicious! During Chanukah, 4th through 8th graders were treated to an amazing appearance by Tamir

Goodman. He gave an inspirational talk to the students about his experience in choosing to give up playing for a Division I college basketball team because Shabbat comes first! He did workshops with the classes and treated them to autographs. Surely his message hit home! Shooby Doob paid us a visit and entertained the children! They sang along to his many favorite tunes, including Rabbi Levine's favorite, "It's Shooby Doob Time." The Chanukah Fair was a huge success as the campus was filled with parents and students having a wonderful time. Many thanks to the volunteers who worked so hard to make Hillel shine for the many families that came to tour Hillel. Feel free to communicate or come visit any time.

Talmud & Technology

By: Rabbi Gur Berman

On a daily basis, teachers of Talmud at Hillel Day School use the latest technology to bring ancient texts to life in their classrooms. The school utilizes SMARTBoards™ as part of teaching technology, which allows teachers of Mishna and Talmud to integrate the eternal wisdom of our tradition with the most modern technology currently available. Students can experience and learn about life in ancient Israel and Babylonia through the use of a cutting edge Talmud curriculum, Gemara Berurah, as well as the Internet, videos and other tools available on the SMARTBoard™. For students and teachers of Talmud and Mishna in the 21st century, the SMARTBoard™ is an indispensable tool.

Morah Tovah's 2nd grade class invited grades 2-5 to come to the "Ohel" (tent) of Avraham. The class practiced the Mitzvah of Hachnassat Orchim (inviting guests) in honor of Parshat Vayera.

Oneg Shemesh (yes, that is his name), a musician who plays the Jewish music of the famous Rabbi Shlomo Carlebach, will be visiting school and putting on short performances for our students.

I regularly take this opportunity to inform you about the exciting, creative, inspirational and ever-changing programs that take place in the Upper School. As the programs are varied, so are their goals. Some seek to bring laughter; others seek to evoke tears. Some encourage character development; others inspire acts of chesed. All of the programs promote a love for and appreciation of Judaism. This year, however, we have chosen to enhance a particular category of programs. Some examples of the types of programs I am referring to follow:

- 4th grade had an after-school Chanukah party with Rabbi Shai.
- 5th graders had a Chanukah party at Rabbi Drang's home.
- 6th grade boys and girls had Friday night onegs (Shabbat parties) at the Englander's and Lanner's, respectively.
- 7th grade boys had a Friday night oneg with Rabbi Levitt while the girls had one at Rabbi Berman's house.
- 8th grade boys had a great time at their Chanukah party at the Levitt's and the girls had a blast at the Smolarcik's.
- An amazing Shabbaton (weekend retreat) was arranged for the 7th and 8th grades.
- We had our first ever Simchat Beit Hashoeva (Sukkot party) during the Sukkot vacation.
- Teachers have been regularly inviting students to their homes for Shabbat meals.

Don't our students see enough of their teachers during the school day? Why do teachers create programs that infringe upon students' private time and even bring students into their homes? The answer is that, ultimately, it's all about relationships. Whether you are searching through Torah sources or modern day educational literature, both are replete with information that highlights the importance of healthy teacher-student relationships. A truly productive and enjoyable education simply cannot be had without it, particularly when the curriculum is values-laden. We believe strongly that programs such as these, which allow for students and teachers to connect with each other outside of the classroom environment, help accomplish this lofty goal. The strong bonds that have been created and fortified during this school year are not just between our students and the Judaic faculty members. It is not uncommon to see students spending out-of-class time with all their teachers. Our popular lunch labs, which provide students with extra help in Ivrit, science, English and math, have also become places for teachers and students to just "hang out." We are truly blessed to have such wonderful faculty members who go above and beyond for their students.

By: Rabbi Mordechai Smolarcik

Over the past few months the Middle School students have been involved in a variety of activities designed to enhance their pro-social behaviors and attitudes. During the month of November they learned about the concept of not being an "innocent bystander" but rather ones who seek out productive ways to get involved when they witness injustice in the world. This theme was introduced to the students on the anniversary of Kristallnacht, and they were asked to think about what they would have done had they woken up in Boca Raton on the morning of November 10, 1938, and found out what was happening to the Jews of Europe. The student provided interesting feedback showing that they were engaged in the theme.

This month's KAR<sup>2</sup>E theme is designed to enhance the students' Jewish pride. To kick off the theme, we invited the "Jewish Michael Jordan," Tamir Goodman, to speak to our students about how he dealt with the national spotlight when he was recruited by the University of Maryland Basketball program and how he had to turn it down because of his Shabbat observance. His talk was filled with examples of how he maintained his Judaism and of how proud he was that he stuck to his principles in the face of the pressures of stardom and success.

We look forward to sharing other great KAR<sup>2</sup>E news with you soon.

HDS parent J.B. Bensmihen visited HDS' KAR<sup>2</sup>E Program to discuss overcoming challenges and the importance of inclusiveness. Afterward students engaged in a fun activity that brought the lesson to life.

Thanks to One Israel Fund (an organization that helps victims of terror in Israel and wounded soldiers of the IDF), Izzy Ezagui told his story to Middle School students. Izzy made Aliyah from Florida several years ago. He joined the IDF and lost an arm during last year's operation in Gaza. This organization is trying to help provide Izzy with a highly advanced prosthetic arm that will help him lead a normal life. As part of this program, we will be kicking off an 8-week tzedakah project to encourage our students to raise money for this worthy cause.

Rabbi Yaakov Gibber visited HDS Middle School students after davening.

The past months have been a whirlwind of activity inside and outside the classrooms. Thanksgiving was a great way for students to learn not only about the historical significance of the holiday, but also a wonderful reminder to be thankful to Hashem for all that we have. This lesson was enforced during the plentiful Thanksgiving feasts the children enjoyed, the artistic costumes created, and the wonderful songs the children sang.

From the plethora of glowing chanukiyot and festive dreidels that filled our gorgeous bulletin boards, to the proud little Maccabees who sang their hearts out before parents and friends, it was easy to see how joyfully busy both students and teachers had become in preparation for and during the celebration of Chanukah. Visitors who stopped by during this time were greeted with what has now become a staple at Hillel during the month of Kislev—ECE’s signature mouth-watering levivot (latkes) and sufganiyot! Lower School was not left out of the festivities either, as they partook in extra fun activities led by the B’not Sherut! Many students were privileged to be entertained by Shooby Doob Shloimy.

The Chanukah Fair Open House, organized by Cara Beim, Simone Broide, Devorah Marcus, and Tammy Pickholtz, and helped run by the countless devoted parent and student volunteers, was an unbelievable success! Many new families as well as Hillel families enjoyed everything from bounce houses and a train, to delicious barbecue, arts and crafts, and vendors, to our annual weeklong Book Fair. I am grateful to all our hardworking volunteers for a job well done!

Thanks to Drs. Naomi and Jeff Gross and Dr. Meyer and Laura Cohen, our students were given the opportunity to learn crucial safety skills during the KidSafe course. Not only did the children take home skills to be and stay safe from experts Cherie Benjoseph and Sally Berenzweig, but they each earned a certificate upon completion of the class. While we hope no one ever has to utilize the tactics taught, what a vital asset this course has been in educating our children to be smart about their surroundings!

Volunteer Spotlight

Ted Friedman, 83, volunteers in Ms. Zemel and Ms. Firestone’s 2nd grade class. He was born in New York and is a huge Yankee fan.

Our 2nd graders are always excited to welcome Mr. Ted Friedman into our classroom. He is a wonderful volunteer who makes his way into our class each week. He is eager to join in on any activity we are involved in and he is always ready to help both groups of children and individuals.

We are glad the boys and girls have the opportunity to interact with this kind and patient gentleman. Here’s what Ted has to say about his volunteer work:

“Since I’m in the twilight of my life, I feel as seniors that we have more to accomplish. My idea is to ask seniors with plenty of leisure time to attend any public or private school and donate 2 hours of their time twice a week. We have the experience and knowledge and it is very rewarding. If we can instill any of our wisdom, we may help them to catch up with their peers. This can help make better citizens when they become adults and they can compete in our great country and the world.”

Thank you Ted for being part of our Hillel family. We appreciate your time and commitment.

A CHANUKAH FAIR TO REMEMBER
Boundless enthusiasm resounded at the HDS annual PTA Chanukah Fair and Open House. Boasting one of the greatest turnouts in Hillel history-as prospective parents and current HDS families entered the Milton B. Katz Campus in droves-the long-awaited December event was a grand success.

From activities for children of all ages to shopping venues and ample food choices, this very special day offered something for everyone. Outside, the front lawn was a hub of entertainment. Little ones flocked to the fair's annual petting zoo while squeals of joy emanated from the bounce house and oversized inflatable slide. Toddlers and siblings in need of some winding down time hopped aboard an all-time Chanukah Fair favorite, the color-block train, which circled the carpool lanes in the Early Childhood parking lot.

With the much appreciated help of Middle School and parent volunteers, this year's Chanukah carnival included an array of fun challenges: bowling, a dreidel toss, the chance to shoot some hoops, and much more. For the first time ever, the carnival also featured creative balloons by Nachum Braverman. Attendees also had a ball on the Haar Athletic Field and in the gymnasium, enjoying varied sports activities for parents and children organized by Coach Moishe Aquart.

And that's not all. While the sun was shining outside, the indoor Lowenstern Cafetorium radiated with excitement. Students enjoyed four choices of arts and crafts activities organized by Lisa Pinkis and hosted by our Sherut Leumi volunteers. Parents and students also enjoyed a varied assortment of shopping stations: the Scholastic Book Fair, BRS Mikvah cookbook sale, Chaya's tableware, Chaya's Vitamins, children's clothing by Rachel Lamm, complimentary massages and helpful information from Yocheved Hande, display of shades, blind, and flooring by Discount Mike, health-related information from Ora Moshe, Hebrew music by Adam Kotok, Mary Kay cosmetics-presented by Carol Hordish, Michelle's flip flops and personalized items, Pampered Chef by Chaya Tabor, pocketbooks by Noga, stationery and invitations by Melissa Wiesel, and more. In addition, a PTA table featured the latest in HDS couture, including HDS Klipped Kippot, HDS sportswear, and Maia Shaffer's sports shirts.

When it was time to refuel from shopping and playing, Cook Extraordinaire Steve Lugerner's heavenly hotdogs and chicken really hit the spot, supplemented with latkes and ice-cold beverages. Dessert and snack options included the highly popular Sno-Kones, sufganiyot (jelly doughnuts), popcorn, and refreshing favorites from the Gelato Shoppe.

Prospective parents enjoyed informative tours of the campus from Rabbi Samuel J. Levine, Head of School, Rabbi Adam Englander, Upper School Principal, and Chayim Dimont, Lower School Principal and Early Childhood Director, who gave them a glimpse into the quality Jewish education their children can receive at Hillel.

The day concluded with the annual raffle, with winners receiving everything from store gift certificates and South Florida attraction tickets to complimentary salon services and more. We thank all of our vendors for contributing such generous prizes. The PTA commends Sara Goldberg for taking the lead in finding these vendors.

While the day offered much fun and prizes, it also provided other rewards—the joy that comes with giving back to the community. As children kept busy, adults fulfilled a very important mitzvah by donating blood. Thank you to Beth Janock for arranging for this opportunity.

The day also typified the sense of commitment that permeates Hillel's student and parent body. The dedication of the many student volunteers was greatly appreciated and the PTA applauds Rina Lanner for coordinating this effort. In addition, countless parents assumed shifts at the ticket booths and fair venues. We thank you so much for your support and, in particular, would like to mention Lisa Houben for recruiting volunteers and arranging schedules. Thank you also to our deejay, David Hordish, who handled announcements and music.

Most importantly, a hearty yasher koach to the Chanukah Fair co-chairs: Cara Beim, Simone Broide, Devorah Marcus and Tammy Pickholtz. We are so sincerely grateful to you for organizing such a spectacular day. Hope to see you all again next year!

Middle School students from Mrs. Rose's Art Institute take their sketchpads outdoors to capture nature as art.

Hillel students sold lemonade to raise money for HDS. Their efforts raised over $13.

HDS 4th grade students show off the centerpieces they created for the "5th Annual Dottie Lipson Education Journey," a program of the Dorothy Seaman Women's Department of Philanthropy of the Jewish Federation of South Palm Beach County.

Students created their own endangered species that lived in the sea, built out of recyclable materials from Mrs. Rose's Art class. They then wrote descriptive pieces about their project in Mrs. Deichman's class, and Ms. DiGuilio taught about adaptations, what an endangered species was, and about the zonation of the oceans. They had to include all of this information in their writings.

HDS Happenings

In honor of Parshat Chayei Sarah, EC3B celebrated Yitzchak and Rivkah's wedding by having their very own mock wedding in the classroom! The children got dressed up, baked and decorated a wedding cake and made their own chuppah for the event! They had a great time celebrating and dancing at the wedding!

Quest Program/ Reading and Language Arts Support

By: Mrs. Rebecca B. Gross, M.Ed.

"We Love Reading" and "We are a Team" greet you at Mrs. Gross' door as you enter a caring, warm, and fun-filled reading environment! A "Smiles are Contagious!" poster, which is surrounded by mini-sized smiley faces, is seen as you sit down to begin your reading lesson in the Reading Room on the 2nd floor.

Every Kindergartener, 1st, 2nd and 3rd grader who receives individualized reading/language arts instruction is treated in a very special manner. The specific educational goals of each student are met. Incentive charts, which offer snacks and treasures from "The Treasure Box," are rewarded to those boys and girls who listen and learn in the appropriate way, following the classroom rules. Magical transformations occur changing caterpillars into beautiful butterflies, as students change their attitudes and reading abilities. Remember...."Reading is to the mind what exercise is to the body."

Science lab gives hands-on experience to young scientists.

The 5th grade experienced fractions firsthand with a pizza/fraction party. The students now have a solid understanding of equivalent fractions, not-to-mention full tummies!

Boys Soccer Finishes With Best Record Ever

Boys Soccer Wrap-Up

By: Coach Moishe Aquart

The Hillel Boys Soccer Team reached great heights this season, with the best record in boys Middle School soccer history! They ended their season with a 7-3 record and were edged out of the playoffs by one point. The team showed a lot of growth and character and pushed further to our goal of winning the championship. The team captains were Ethan Harris (8th grade) and Ari Clements (8th grade), who were superb the whole season. The defense of Or-El Ben-Shimon (8th grade) and Avi Schneider (8th grade) were consistent and determined. The offense was led by Jordan Stauber (7th grade), who orchestrated the mid-field and allowed Tani Kay (6th grade) and Jacob Katz (6th grade) to be the leading scorers. The rookie of the season was Sam Baum, who was the first 5th grader to start on a regular basis. Overall it was a great season, and with the help of Assistant Coaches Rabbi Shai Ovadia and Gil Ovadia, it was a successful season. I would also like to thank the Agus family and the staff of Asia for a great end-of-season banquet.

“Yes, yes, yes we do! We've got team spirit, what about you?”

Hillel Lady Lions Bring Home the Title!

By: Coach Jeffrey Harris

For the first time in our school's history, the Girls Basketball Team won their league championship! To be in a position to play for the title, the Lady Lions had to travel to Weston (along with 120+ of our Middle School students) to play Sagemont which was 9-0 going into our playoff game with them. We came out of the gate roaring and took a 10-0 lead in the first quarter. As the game continued, Sagemont's defense got much better and with less than a minute to play Hillel was winning 13-10. With about 15 seconds left, Sagemont was trying to score to take the game into overtime. They shot and missed but the rebound bounced out and a Sagemont guard grabbed the ball behind the 3 point line and shot it with no time on the clock. The shot went in and they tied the game sending it into overtime! Our girls came back to the huddle and were determined not to let this game get away. In overtime, the girls played great and pulled away for a 20 to 13 win. The next day the girls were playing for the championship against Brauser Maimonides Academy. The girls were both excited and nervous since they had lost to BMA the week before by a score of 24-21 but were confident that if they played well they could win it all. Great defense was played by both teams in the first half as the half ended with the score of 5-4 in our favor. In the 3rd quarter we started to pull away, and by the middle of the 4th quarter we were ahead by a score of 16 to 5. The girls did a great job over the last 2 minutes of the game making sure we did not give BMA a chance to get back in the game and the final score was 16 to 7 Hillel. The gym erupted with excitement since there were over 200 people in attendance and most of the fans were there to support our Lions.

Our girls earned this championship. The team, led by our captains Talia Mamann and Sophie Rose, worked hard (many weeks having 3 practices and needing to be at the gym early Sunday morning) and came together as a team. It was great to watch the camaraderie of the girls as everyone pulled for and supported each other throughout the season. Allison Dennis, our playoff MVP, played her best basketball of the season when it counted most. Arielle Wernick and Sophie Rose were tremendous defensively and seemed to grab every rebound, helping to keep our opponents scoring to a minimum. Shira Clements and Kira Dennis were our floor leaders and did a great job in running our offense. We also were fortunate to have inspired playoff of the bench from Danielle Dennis, Kayla Gross, Emma Harris and Talia Mamman. Most importantly, all of our girls exhibited the type of good sportsmanship that we, as parents, and teachers, were very proud of. Last but not least, a special thanks to Maia Shaffer for all of her efforts on behalf of the team.

Dor L'Dor: Grandparent & Grand-Friends

We are off to a great start. Over two dozen enthusiastic grandparents came to our first grandparent event of the year. As many of you remember, we had decided this year that rather than having just one Dor L'Dor event we are planning to have several opportunities throughout the year for grandparents to connect with our school and to see their grandchildren in action, doing what they do on a regular basis in school.

Our bubbies and zaydies were so pleased to see their progeny learning. One grandfather, who added an extra day onto his visit to Boca from Seattle just to attend this event said, "Everyone seemed so relaxed and content. We found a most pleasing atmosphere here at Hillel." We are planning other opportunities like this and will send detailed information as they are confirmed. If you did not have a visit with your grandchildren this time but would like to in the future, please call the office at 561-470-5000 and speak with Suzanne Rice, our Director of Development, and she will make sure your name is on the list.

In addition to the visits with the kids, our grandparents were given a tour of our state-of-the-art new gymnasium. They heard from Rabbi Samuel J. Levine, our impressive Head of School, who openly stated, "Good is not what we strive for --- We must be great.!" We also heard from our hard working and committed school president, Daniel Katz, and had a chance to chat with both school leaders. Our wonderful day school is so encouraging to our generation to get involved, to be relevant--- volunteer to read stories to our young students, help with the understaffed library which needs our touch, etc. and contribute in any way you can to the financial challenges we face at Hillel. One grandparent suggested $1/ day. That's great ! And $10/ day is also great.

We also learned from one of our Bubbies, Bonnie Weinreb, about a personal history project that she'd like to encourage through guidelines in a well-received booklet she wrote. We hope to pursue this with another grandparent gathering which will really enhance our connections to our children and grandchildren. Genealogy and personal history programs for a school like ours are so important. They add another enduring dimension to learning in general and Jewish learning and connectedness, in particular.

Please don't miss the next "ruach- filled" Hillel event, the Annual Journal Event, the main fundraising event of the year (see below). We will be there and would love to see all of you there, too. Please be in touch with us any time. Questions, comments, suggestions . . . we are happy to hear from you.

Shalom,

Helen Cohan (561-350-5721) and Anna Freedman (561-392-1183)

A Thinking Expedition: Journey into the Unknown

By: Emily Rosenstein, English Department Chair

Just a few days before families gathered for a joyful Thanksgiving, I traveled to Philadelphia for the 99th Annual Conference for the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE). To my astonishment, upon entering the Convention Center, the surge of people filling the grandiose hall and filing in and out of conference rooms resembled frantic holiday shoppers searching for the perfect gifts. As I assimilated into this group, attending the first session, I further assessed my initial classification of my peers; I realized how similar we English teachers were to holiday shoppers on a treasure hunt of our own. While we were not gallivanting around the nation's malls in pursuit of presents and swiping our credit cards in attainment of our finds, we were trepid explorers with a literary map, searching for our own gilded treasures. For four days, we sailed from session to session, meeting like-minded colleagues and preeminent authors, determined to discover new techniques, tools, and materials for the teaching of language and literature. With these guides as a compass, English teachers of today renewed existing convictions and gained pioneering, inventive skills to better navigate through the uncharted waters that await in the school years ahead. I was that explorer; I am that English teacher.

So I sailed along the literary sea, cramming my four days with experiences that not only inform the teaching of the disciplines within an English Language Arts curriculum but also impact its instruction across the many grade levels at Hillel Day School. Day after day, I listened to remarkable, even legendary, authors like Gordon Korman, Nicholas Sparks, and Julie Andrews share their perspectives on reading and writing. I attended over a dozen sessions led by accomplished, innovative practitioners as well as principal researchers in the field. As I gained unparalleled exposure to various and harmonious research-based theories unanimously indicating a necessity to focus on high-order thinking skills, I reflected on my practice. Are my students thinkers? Do they think critically? Do they think enough? I wondered if we, at Hillel, are shaping our students to be thinkers. Since Hillel is among the nation's educational mosaic, I believe it is our responsibility to not simply prepare our students for the next linear level of schooling; rather, it is our duty to equip them with a personal repertoire of creative skills to navigate the unknown oceans of our ever-changing and ever-growing technological world. Somewhere along the way, we have neglected the student's own dialogue with his learning; we have ignored his voice.

Through my experience as a participant in this year's NCTE conference, I uncovered a new mantra: as a teacher I am more than a conduit of knowledge. It is my role to guide my students and empower them to ask their own questions. For example, when students read a piece of literature, they typically respond to a list of questions we, the English teachers, provide; yet, first and foremost, I realize that students must read the text with meta-cognitive awareness. Students should confidently and consistently "talk-back" to the book, writing on post-its or in the margins about what they are noticing, feeling, thinking, and even beginning to infer. These are the ideas that typically lie dormant during reading since students wait to be told what is important or what is right. Learning though is not merely a journey of correctness; it is a journey of discovery. From reading to writing to each area of the English language arts curriculum, teachers can model thinking skills. Critical thinking is teachable. Therefore, with my newly enthused commitment to the field and to our school, I pledge to steer Hillel's young minds on a thinking expedition, sailing into a rapidly changing tomorrow today.
